Long And Short Of It

Schools Ponder Boys' Hair, Girls' Skirts

LISBON — The Chief School Administrators of Columbiana County agreed here Friday they could not agree on a uniform policy covering boys with long hair and girls with short skirts.

They did agree, however, that students should be clean and neat and respectably dressed and, if they are not, the dean of boys or girls may send them home.

Approximately 20 superintendents and principals representing all school districts except one attended the luncheon meeting at the Wick Hotel. James L. McBride, superintendent of county schools, presided.

JUDGE Louis Tobin of Juvenile Court discussed the Supreme Court decision in the Gault case and its implications, as he sees them, for the schools.

He said the decision guarantees a juvenile all the constitutional privileges accorded an adult and, in effect, places a child before juvenile court in the same position as a defendant in a criminal trial. Court citations now give the juvenile a record which could interfere with future employment or service in the armed forces, Judge Tobin said.

He recommended that school officials adopt a policy covering conditions for which they will refer a youth to Juvenile Court.

After discussion, the administrators amended the uniform policy covering truancy to charge the parents rather than the student.

POLICY HAS been to warn the student and parents whenever a student is truant and, on the third proven case, cite the child to Juvenile Court. Hereafter, on the third instance, the student will be suspended from school and the parents charged with violating the Compulsory Education Act. The vote on this was unanimous.

McBride said no policy was set up for other conditions for which students would be cited. He said each administrator will deal with the different problems as they arise.

McBride introduced two new comers to the group — Donald Lowe, new superintendent of Wellsville schools, and Vernon Walrath of East Liverpool, new vocational education program coordinator for seven schools districts in the county.

Rhodes, Assembly Given Report By School Board

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The State Board of Education sent its annual report to Gov. James A. Rhodes and the 107th General Assembly today, citing status and progress of Ohio's 5,663 public, private and parochial schools.

It also pointed to the growing problems in the fields of administration and supervision.

The report, based on the 1965-66 school year, had data state board President Robert W. Walker, and Supt. of Public Instruction Martin W. Essex said is intended to "place into proper perspective the needs and problems of Ohio schools in developing solutions to the complex issues confronting public education in an era of urbanization, technology and social change."

Essex said that Ohio schools, with the fourth largest enrollment in the nation, "must serve the wide range of needs of the varied backgrounds and abilities of its children and youth."

In the state's many large industrial cities, productive agricultural sections and rapidly growing suburban communities, he said, "all look to schools to maintain property values, assure employability and under-

The school officials said the big and growing dimensions of Ohio education are evident among the 10-year comparisons in the report. They listed some of the comparisons this way:

—Kindergartens grew 63 per cent.

Stepped-Up Raids Result In Loss Of 3 More Bombers

SAIGON (AP) — Stepped-up air raids on North Vietnam have cost the United States three more warplanes, the U.S. Command disclosed today.

The command revealed the losses by merely announcing a higher total—647—of U.S. warplanes shot down over the North so far in the war. It did not say where or when the planes were downed.

The announcement followed a day in which U.S. pilots flew 186 missions against the North—second highest daily total so far—but there was no mention of losses in Friday's raids.

Meanwhile, U.S. B52 bombers ripped up more of the A Shau Valley today in their long campaign of trying to demolish a major military base which the North Vietnamese have built inside South Vietnam's northwest border.

A 25-mile road still brings men and supplies into the base through Laos despite more than 50 previous B52 raids aimed at the camouflaged enemy installations and hundreds of fighter-bomber strikes.

Friday was the fourth day this month in which U.S. fliers logged a record or near-record number of missions. The record of 197 was set Aug. 3.

As for losses, the Command often delays reports of a downed plane when the North Vietnamese are not aware the plane crashed far out at sea.

Although a military spokesman said no special significance could be attached to the number of missions Friday it was evident an all-out campaign has been ordered against North Vietnamese supply channels.

The ground war remained generally quiet as it has for almost two months but scattered and frequently sharp skirmishes ranged up and down South Vietnam. The known casualties from reported actions were nine Americans dead and 99 wounded while the Communist forces suffered 165 dead from infantry, air, artillery and helicopter firepower, the U.S. Command said.

The air armada hurled at the North mostly hit targets from Hanoi south to the demilitarized zone but some flights went into the "Iron Triangle" of defenses around the Red capital and its sister port city of Haiphong. In-

Johnson Defends Authority

Critics Of Viet Policies May Snub LBJ Challenge

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate critics indicate they'll avoid accepting President Johnson's challenge for Congress to try to rescind a 1964 resolution he cites as an endorsement of his Vietnam war actions.

Johnson told a nationally televised White House news conference Friday he has ample authority to conduct the conflict. He said if Congress wants to withdraw its support "the machinery is there."

This was a reference to the so-called Gulf of Tonkin resolution adopted Aug. 7, 1964 with only two dissenting votes, those of Sens. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., and Ernest Gruening, D-Alaska.

The resolution put Congress on record as approving and supporting "the determination of the President, as Commander in Chief, to take all necessary measures to repel any armed attack against the forces of the United States and to prevent further aggression" in Vietnam.

Since the resolution carried a provision that Congress could terminate it by a resolution approved by both houses—and not requiring a presidential signature—Johnson said:

"The machinery is there anytime Congress decides to withdraw its views on the matter."

Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, who said he didn't know in 1964 "what we were getting into" and apologized for sponsoring the resolution, said he doesn't really know whether he might try to rescind it.

Fulbright has contended the resolution, passed during what he says was the emotional reaction to a Communist attack on U.S. ships in the Gulf of Tonkin, did not authorize large-scale

Bail Placed At $25,000 In Gun Case

Action Concerns Transporting Of Carbine On Plane

NEW YORK (AP) — H. Rap Brown, militant Black Power leader, was held in $25,000 bail on a federal firearm charge today, and his lawyer called the high bail a "political maneuver that makes this a political crime."

Brown was arrested early today as he left a friend's Manhattan apartment. He was accused of carrying a carbine on airline flights between New York and New Orleans, in violation of a federal law which makes it illegal for anyone under indictment to transport a firearm across state lines.

Brown, chairman of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, is under indictment in Maryland on charges of arson, rioting and inciting to riot. The "political crime" charge was made by his attorney, William Kunstler, at Brown's arraignment before U.S. Commissioner Earl N. Bishopp.

Asst. U.S. Atty. Stephen E. Kaufman called the charges unfounded, and said the high bail was requested because of the seriousness of the charge.

About a dozen of Brown's friends watched quietly during the arraignment.

The charge against him, under Section 902E of the Federal Firearms Act, carries a maximum penalty of five years in jail and a $20,000 fine.

When Bishopp read the charges, which called him Hubert Gerold Brown, the defendant interrupted the commissioner and said, "Rap Brown is my name."

Bishopp made the change on the papers.

Brown, 23, was accused in the complaint with carrying the automatic rifle from New York to New Orleans Wednesday and again in a return flight here Friday.

Brown was in New York for a news conference at which he announced the departure of SNCC's former chairman, Stokely Carmichael, for Hanoi and called on "all black people" to celebrate August 18, the second anniversary of the start of the Watts riots as "Black Independence Day."

He said Carmichael had gone

'Overhead' Irks Judges

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Faced with the prospect of wigs on their heads, Pittsburgh jurists responded Friday with tongues in their cheeks.

The jurists spoke up after state Assemblyman Bernard M. Gross of Philadelphia circulated a letter outlining a proposal to have Pennsylvania's judges wear wigs on the bench.

"The purpose is to raise the level of respect for our courts and add greater dignity to courtroom proceedings," wrote Gross.

"It must be some sort of gag," said one judge.

Judge David Olbum said, "I would feel very silly wearing a wig. I lost most of my hair several years ago and am quite used to having my skin up there exposed."

Asked another jurist, "Do we have a choice of color? Would the wigs be standardized or would we have to sit down with the chief justice for a pow wow?"

West Virginia Probe Set Into Anti-Poverty Teams

CHARLESTON (AP) — A federal investigation will begin Monday into charges of immoral conduct and impropriety leveled against young anti-poverty workers in West Virginia.

Gov. Hulett Smith and representatives of the Office of Economic Opportunity announced the probe almost simultaneously Friday night. Smith's announcement came out of a hastily called news conference on the subject.

Smith said he wanted an "immediate and thorough investigation" of the accusations against some Volunteers in Service to America (VISTA) workers and members of a group called Appalachian Volunteers.

written to R. Sargent Shriver, director of the Office of Economic Opportunity, last Monday detailing what he called the "flaws and peccadilloes being manifested" by some of VISTAS and AVs.

The VISTA workers came under the direct control of OEO, while the Appalachian Volunteers, mostly young persons of college age recruited by the Peace Corps, work under the supervision of an anti-poverty organization at Bristol, Tenn.

Smith, in his letter to Shriver,

Bail Placed At $25,000 In Gun Case

Action Concerns Transporting Of Carbine On Plane

NEW YORK (AP) — H. Rap Brown, militant Black Power leader, was held in $25,000 bail on a federal firearm charge today, and his lawyer called the high bail a "political maneuver that makes this a political crime."

Brown was arrested early today as he left a friend's Manhattan apartment. He was accused of carrying a carbine on airline flights between New York and New Orleans, in violation of a federal law which makes it illegal for anyone under indictment to transport a firearm across state lines.

Brown, chairman of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, is under indictment in Maryland on charges of arson, rioting and inciting to riot.

The "political crime" charge was made by his attorney, William Kunstler, at Brown's arraignment before U.S. Commissioner Earl N. Bishopp.

Asst. U.S. Atty. Stephen E. Kaufman called the charges unfounded, and said the high bail was requested because of the seriousness of the charge.

About a dozen of Brown's friends watched quietly during the arraignment.

The charge against him, under Section 902E of the Federal Firearms Act, carries a maximum penalty of five years in jail and a $20,000 fine.

When Bishopp read the charges, which called him Hubert Geroid Brown, the defendant interrupted the commissioner and said, "Rap Brown is my name."

Bishopp made the change on the papers.

Brown, 23, was accused in the complaint with carrying the automatic rifle from New York to New Orleans Wednesday and again in a return flight here Friday.

Brown was in New York for a news conference at which he announced the departure of SNCC's former chairman, Stokely Carmichael, for Hanoi and called on "all black people" to celebrate August 18, the second anniversary of the start of the Watts riots as "Black Independence Day."

He said Carmichael had gone

'Overhead' Irks Judges

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Faced with the prospect of wigs on their heads, Pittsburgh jurists responded Friday with tongues in their cheeks.

The jurists spoke up after state Assemblyman Bernard M. Gross of Philadelphia circulated a letter outlining a proposal to have Pennsylvania's judges wear wigs on the bench.

"The purpose is to raise the level of respect for our courts and add greater dignity to courtroom proceedings," wrote Gross.

"It must be some sort of gag," said one judge.

Judge David Olbum said, "I would feel very silly wearing a wig. I lost most of my hair several years ago and am quite used to having my skin up there exposed."

Asked another jurist, "Do we have a choice of color? Would the wigs be standardized or would we have to sit down with the chief justice for a pow wow?"

SUMMER AND YOUR SEPTIC TANK

Surprising though it may seem, summer with its sunshine and showers, is just about the most critical time of the year for owners of septic tanks.

To correctly understand the aforementioned statement it is first necessary to analyze the workings of septic tanks, and the effect of seasonal changes.

Your septic tank is a chamber wherein exists a complex of micro-organisms, each type equipped to handle and dispose of different types of waste material. Working as a team, these infinitesimal forms of life break down and liquefy the solids, leaving only a liquid which is free to run out for final disposal in your drainfield or drywell. Regularly activated, these living "garbage disposals" will normally keep up with the flow of waste, and your system will function properly. However, surveys show that during the summer season, more systems "back-up" and overflow than at any other time of year, creating expensive and highly unsanitary conditions.

WHY???

The answer to that question is simply "temperature". Bacterial life dislikes temperature changes, and, since your septic tank has no heating system to keep things cozy so that they can go about their work in comfort, they die off in the millions and billions when winter arrives, leaving only a "skeleton crew" of weakened bacteria to handle the heavy loads. Consequently, as winter months pass slowly by, a build-up of undigested grease and solids occurs, clogging the tank and passing through to the disposal fields. Grease congeals and deposits in the pores of the soil, almost to the point of being beyond repair. Melting ice, snow, and showers add to the problem by increasing the amount of water entering the system.

How Sea-Cal Enzymes Help

The powerful digestive powers of the enzymes contained in SEA-CAL rapidly liquefy the hard grease packs in the septic tanks and drainfields, changing such grease and other solids into available food for the bacteria. SEA-CAL also contains 80,000,000 anaerobic bacteria per gram (28 grams in each ounce) and with each bacteria reproducing itself many times a day, the micro-organism population is rapidly built up to the adequate numbers, with the ultimate return of full operating efficiency.

Litter Still Problem At Beaver Creek Park

Litter is still a problem at Beaver Creek State Park, according to Elmer Howell, manager.

Howell made the statement when he spoke to members of the Lions Club Friday noon in the Travelers Hotel.

However, he pointed out, most of the litter comes from persons who bring trash into the park and dump it, not from the campers and visitors. Howell said his men keep watch for litterbugs, and find most visitors clean up any trash they create.

Howell screened slides of the park and gave a brief history of the numerous locks constructed for the Sandy - Beaver Canal. More than 2,000 acres are now under the state's protection, he said, noting the department of natural resources is still adding land.

In response to a question, Howell said "there's talk of" a lodge similar to the one at Atwood Lake.

Howell said there is also talk of $650,000 for improvements to the park, "but we haven't got any of it yet," he said the money has been promised for the facility for more than six years.

Howell said he envisions an extensive facility, "but not in the near future."

Last year 208,000 visited the park and 19,000 camped in the park's primitive camping area.

Howell was accompanied by William Sharp, assistant park manager.

Howard Tice was program chairman.

President Charles Haugh said Jack Smith is now home after an illness which confined him to City Hospital.

to North Vietnam to "see for himself the savage aggression being carried out against that country by the United States... Mr. Carmichael will see for himself the atrocities being perpetrated against the people of Vietnam."

Kunstler said Brown was arrested "outside an apartment that some friend of his has. He uses it. He stays there quite often and they must have known that."

In Washington, the Justice Department said the New Orleans complaint alleged airline personnel saw Brown with the rifle on his flight to New Orleans and two sheriff's deputies observed the weapon in his possession when he later travelled to Baton Rouge by bus.

Extensive damage resulted at a Westinghouse plant in Vanport Friday at 10:59 p.m. when a gas boiler, which provides steam for the whole plant, exploded.

The blast, which touched off a flood of calls from area residents to police, was reported heard for miles.

Production schedules in the plant were not affected by the explosion, officials said.

The boiler is one of three in the plant. The two others are coal boilers and are not usually used in the summer.

to North Vietnam to "see for himself the savage aggression being carried out against that country by the United States... Mr. Carmichael will see for himself the atrocities being perpetrated against the people of Vietnam."

Kunstler said Brown was arrested "outside an apartment that some friend of his has. He uses it. He stays there quite often and they must have known that."

In Washington, the Justice Department said the New Orleans complaint alleged airline personnel saw Brown with the rifle on his flight to New Orleans and two sheriff's deputies observed the weapon in his possession when he later travelled to Baton Rouge by bus.

Two Are Injured When Autos Hit

Two were injured Friday night when a Wellsville man was unable to avoid a collision with an oncoming car on Route 45 just north of Wellsville.

The Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon said a 1963 convertible driven by Cornell L. Allen, 32, of Warren was southbound on Route 45 and began passing another auto.

Approaching in the opposite direction was a 1950 pickup truck driven by Arnett H. Buzzard, 48, of RD 1, who attempted to leave the highway, but was struck by the Allen car.

Allen is listed "fair" today at City Hospital with lacerations of the scalp, neck and abrasions of the arms and chest.

Buzzard was treated at City Hospital.

war in Asia. Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., who has for months been urging Johnson to ask Congress for a fresh mandate on Vietnam policy, said it would be inconceivable that Congress would withdraw its support of the President in a time of war.

"It is one thing to have a mandate renewed and another to repudiate the policies of the President," Javits said. "I think his policies are vulnerable because they are out of date."

"The Gulf of Tonkin resolution is obsolescent. I think the President would get more authority than he has if he asked for a fresh review of his actions," he added.

Johnson said the 1964 resolution was not really necessary to authorize "what we did and what we are doing." But he has cited it several times as indicating Congress supported his policies.

Three Foreign Relations Committee members said in separate interviews Congress had not envisioned a major war effort when it approved the 1964 resolution, but added they saw no point in rescinding it.

All doubted there would be any significant move to do so.

2 City Boys Held For Ransacking Of Welding Shop

Two 11-year-old city youths, taken into custody by city police in connection with an entry of a welding shop, are scheduled for hearings before Juvenile Court authorities.

The two were picked up by Patrolman Charles Coen late Friday afternoon for questioning about the entering at the Freed's Welding shop of 319 E. 2nd St. earlier in the afternoon.

Robert Freed, the owner, said he left his business about 11:30 a.m. yesterday. His wife entered the company's office about 1 p.m. and found it ransacked.

A book of 5-cent stamps and six or eight recording tapes "of sentimental value" were missing.

A neighbor told police she saw two boys enter a building owned by Mike Pusateri and a short time later observed them coming up an alley between the two buildings.

Pusateri, who recently purchased the structure, said nothing was missing.

Entrance was gained at Freed's through a broken window on the east side of the building. The thieves apparently left through a door on the same side.

Two locks and an unknown quantity of 10 cent stamps were also missing from the office.

The Canada goose can submerge for three minutes and swim one hundred yards under water, the National Geographic says.

A Helping Hand For Firemen

There is no excuse for Congress to dawdle over the question of federal legislation to protect firemen.

Fire chiefs across the nation have called for swift enactment of a proposal by Sen. Frank J. Lausche, D-O., imposing a five-year prison term on anyone interfering with a fireman or policeman performing his duty during a riot.

We can see, but do not condone, the mental attitude of rioters who resist the efforts of policemen to restore order but it is inconceivable they would shoot down unarmed firemen trying to protect property.

Firemen are not law enforcement agents. They are concerned with doing a job. That job is to extinguish fires and rescue anyone trapped by them.

In riot situations they need all the help they can get instead of having to dodge bullets and clubs.

The consequences of a riot are bad enough without the addition of uncontrolled fire damage brought on by firemen being unable to move into areas when a blaze first breaks out.

So far in the long siege of riots, firemen have performed remarkably well under the circumstances. In the recent Detroit holocaust, performance of the firemen neared the heroic level a number of times.

But there is a limit to how far these men should be asked to go.

We feel that limit has been reached. The time has come to give firemen a break.

Firefighting isn't an easy job at best and legislation must be enacted to give them some degree of safety from mob violence as they seek to protect the property of all citizens.

Legislation alone will not eradicate the whole problem. But it will help to deter some of the senseless abuse, and moreover, it will be a public token of appreciation for the job our firemen are doing.

The Uninoculated

Sgt. Ralph Rizzo, the genial Ohio Highway Patrol commander at Lisbon, poses an interesting medical research problem the solution to which could solve some of the carnage on our highways.

"If we were only able to inject into the careless and irresponsible motorist some serum of maturity or of common sense," he muses during his talks before various groups across the county.

Just plain common sense certainly would cut down on the deaths, pain, anguish, repair bills and incidentals connected with a moment's carelessness behind the steering wheel.

A look at the terminology of traffic violations betrays us. What rational human being would "drive left of center," "fail to yield the right of way," "pass at the crest of a hill," "speed too fast for conditions"?

Quickly, Doc! Let's get started with the white rats, the test tubes, the elixir of common sense. Until then, Sgt. Rizzo and his men and police officers elsewhere, along with the hospital personnel, wrecker crews, ambulance drivers, judges and jailers will have to wipe up, sew up, clean up, write up and send up the immature, the uninoculated.

No Pampering For Pooches

It's a sobering thought to learn people are seeking professional help to learn how to get along with their dogs.

And it lessens the shock only a little to know this is going on in such places as Beverly Hills, Calif., where the psychiatrist's couch is as essential to the well-adjusted life as the private swimming pool and the vintage car.

This intriguing aspect of life and times of modern man, circa 1967, is revealed in an exhaustive study by The Wall Street Journal which will on occasion go to the dogs to bring its readers basic news.

The study also discloses that dogs are reasonable and even dislike pretentious doghouses.

It is, in fact, this spartan canine attitude in the face of owner insistence on forcing fancy doghouses on them that brings dogs and their masters to such imposing establishments as the Canine Behavior Institute of Beverly Hills for what the institute calls "psychological adjustment" of the parties concerned.

It is not at all unusual for pampered pets to turn up their purebred noses at palatial doghouses and insist on something simpler.

Dogs commonly scorn such doghouse extravaganzas as air conditioning, radiant heat and picture windows for just a plain old undecorated house.

Nevertheless, many dog owners insist on buying a poodle-sized tent of mink for $400 or of chinchilla for $500. And for an additional $750, Fifi can sleep in a chinchilla bed.

And a New Jersey banker. The Journal reports, is happily paying $1,500 for a green and gold stucco home with a gold drinking fountain and a red velvet cushion for his German shepherd.

A lot of less affluent dog lovers, you have to suspect, would shed few tears if the German shepherd chewed up that red velvet cushion, left that gold fountain running until it flooded the green and gold doggy mansion, and insisted upon sleeping on a comfortable old blanket like many a disadvantaged pooch who, strangely enough, seems to regard his owner as a king.

Propaganda Gag Costly

By Ray Cromley

One reason for Communist strength in Vietnam today is that for 10 crucial years the Reds had overwhelming superiority in propaganda — including radio propaganda.

Vietnamese heard the Communist line day in and day out. There was little to counter it.

The same situation was held in northeastern Thailand, where Communists are building strength. Though there is a Thai government station in the area, this effort is outgunned by the Communists.

This Communist propaganda superiority exists in many parts of the world.

At this time, therefore, it is tragic that Free Cuba Radio has gone off the air — for lack of funds. The operation beamed 13 hours a day of information to Latin America through stations in Miami, New Orleans, Santo Domingo and Key West.

Over the past seven years, its programs have helped keep hope and sabotage — alive in Cuba.

Listeners in such Latin Communist target countries as Venezuela, Bolivia, Colombia, Argentina and Mexico have voluntarily organized groups, gone out into the countryside to counter Red propaganda among the farmers.

The programs have received letters from 45 countries. It blanketed Latin America's 20 countries and the islands in the Caribbean.

What Free Cuba Radio did in the main was to attempt to get people on their own, without outside help, to solve their own problems in a democratic way by local action. The stations encouraged local groups to work for democratic elections and democratic institutions in their own way. The stations did not enter into local politics — though they gave the facts on communism.

Yet this program over all cost probably less than $300,000 a year.

Probably the major achievement of Free Cuba Radio has been to help keep up the morale of hundreds of thousands of Cubans who might have otherwise lost hope completely.

The programs have carried bread and butter advice to Cubans under Castro — techniques mothers could use to unbrainwash their children when they'd come home from hours of Communist drilling in Castro's schools, details on how to sabotage when cutting sugar cane, when riding in buses, at work in a factory and suggestions on how to hold up under Red pressures.

Official U.S. government propaganda stations will continue to operate programs beamed to Latin America. But there are many things a privately operated group of stations can do that the U.S. government can't. Private stations can be a great deal franker for one thing. They give a nonofficial point of view.

It is unfortunate that we have not learned that it is cheaper and more effective to spend more energy and funds in encouraging the peoples in other countries to build the institutions that will fight communism. Radio, by itself, will not prevent Vietnam. But some radio programs can help.

Peace Plan

It's costing $26 billion a year to carry on the war in Vietnam. There's a better way to use the money. The funds could be applied constructively instead of destructively—and both Red China and North Vietnam also could benefit from the change from war to peace.

The time has come for the United States government to propose a "Marshall Plan" for Asia that would transcend anything which has been suggested heretofore. Up to now, the proposals for aid outlined by President Johnson in his speeches have dealt with relatively small sums and only in the general terms with the development of Southeast Asia. There has been no comprehensive program devices as yet to enlist the co-operation of the North Vietnamese and their allies.

What is needed, first of all, is a pledge by the United States that, if the war is ended, the equivalent of a substantial part of the amounts expended at present in the Vietnam War—possibly half—will be contributed to a general fund which would be used to reconstruct the whole of Vietnam under an independent government. To assure confidence in the sincerity and disinterestedness of the United States, the plan could be administered by an alliance of nations consisting primarily of the United States, Great Britain, Japan, Australia, the Soviet Union and representatives of the governments of Red China and Nationalist China.

SUCH A COMMISSION could disburse the money on the condition that North and South Vietnam would lay down their arms and concentrate on self-development, so that facilities for education, agriculture and industrial production, as well as the distribution of food to the poverty-stricken, would be provided and a start made toward the attainment of economic stability.

President Johnson, in a speech at Johns Hopkins University on April 7, 1965, said:

"For most of history men have hated and killed one another in battle. But we dream of an end to war. And we will try to make it so. For all existence most men have lived in poverty, threatened by hunger. But we dream of a world where all are fed and charged with hope. And we will help to make it so."

"The ordinary men and women of North Vietnam and South Vietnam, of China and India, of Russia and America, are brave people. They are filled with the same proportion of hate and fear, of love and hope. Most of them want the same things for themselves and their families. Most of them do not want their sons to ever die in battle or to see their homes, or the homes of others, destroyed."

"Well, this can be their world yet. Man now has the knowledge—always before denied—to make this planet serve the real needs of the people who live on it."

Since the foregoing speech was made, Mr. Johnson helped to establish the Asian Development Bank in Manila, with Japan and 31 nations sharing the leadership in making low-cost loans for capital improvements throughout the area. The United States offered a billion-dollar contribution for the building of a system of dams in the Mekong Delta to provide electric power.

BUT NO PLAN yet has penetrated the minds of the North Vietnamese. While comments occasionally have been made about reconstructing Asia, the idea has not been pursued through the channels of diplomacy as a prize to be won by the making of a peace agreement that would end the war in Vietnam.

The United States has in the last 75 years shown a friendship for the Chinese people in many ways and, indeed, helped to protect China against aggression in World War II. Unfortunately, the political ambitions of Asian countries have been the ruling factor in the many crises that have arisen. Never has an economic plan of mammoth proportions been outlined to attract the peoples of Asia and especially the inhabitants of the entire Vietnam region.

Development schemes have been suggested for Thailand, Laos, Cambodia and South Vietnam, but there will not be peace until a far-reaching program of financial and economic help is formulated and all factions of the Vietnamese people join together behind the project. Billions of dollars now being spent on war, if put into such a plan, could some day achieve an enduring peace in Vietnam and the rest of Asia. It would really be turning "swords into plowshares."

Human Use Of Human Beings

The sun really never sets on the General Electric Co. It's up there in outer space. Its engineers and scientists are spread across the moon landing project. Its plants in many parts of the world now produce so efficiently that the firm can undersell the Japanese right in Japan.

Regularly, its executives get into a collective bargaining dialogue with some mighty militant unions and sometimes the dialogue is loud and heated. But regularly its management and labor settle down peacefully. Since GE is one of the leaders in labor relations and communications, I asked its chief executive officer to muse aloud about the future of our automated society. Here is the reply from F. J. Borch.

Victor Riesel

NEW YORK: — In the three years, 1964-65-66, U.S. business invested an unprecedented $150 billion in new plants and equipment — or approximately $750 for every man, woman and child in the U.S. A particularly important portion of this went for so-called "automated" equipment: numerically controlled machines, computers, process controls, industrial and information systems — equipment to improve productivity and lower costs.

During this period, the economy grew at an annual rate of more than $50 billion a year in gross national product, unemployment dropped to the lowest levels in a decade, and the prices of most manufactured goods remained relatively stable.

Along with this, the many fears that were being so freely expressed in the early 1950s and '60s of widespread disruptions in the economy as a result of the impact of computers and automation have failed to materialize. In an expanding economy, there has been a net gain in the number and quality of jobs.

The President's National Commission on Technology, Automation and Economic Progress, which presented its report last year, concludes: "If unemployment does creep upward in the future it will be the fault of public policy, not the fault of technological change. . . the most important condition for successful adjustment to technological change in an adequate level of total income and employment."

IN SPITE OF THE RECORD expansion of the last six years the needs of our American society are still only partially met. And the needs of the rest of the world exceed the whole world's productive capacity — and will for years to come.

In the world today, the real threat to our security is not the machine, or even a revolutionary new technology. The real danger lies in failing to increase what we can afford to do, of failing to increase our productive output with our available labor force, and capital and other resources. For if more is produced, there is more to divide up — and this latter becomes a problem for which there is no solution. No one expects the problems of underdeveloped nations, or of our underprivileged areas, to be easy of solution, but they will be impossible without continued economic growth at home and in the other developed countries of the world.

Since the growth problem has international dimensions, I see the remedy as requiring more healthy competition among nations, among their institutions, and particularly among their various industries. I see the current drive by American industry to achieve greater cost effectiveness and improved productivity not only as a short-term answer to the present profit squeeze, but as a continuing way of life in the future.

A particularly important part of this achievement is the assimilation and integration of the computer and the new information technology into existing systems — technological, human and social. We have found at General Electric — as a manufacturer and very extensive user of computer systems — that they are a vital element in nearly every other technology in which we are engaged.

IT IS SIGNIFICANT that the information industry is growing at a faster rate than any other major industry — from about $1 billion a year in 1956 to $8 billion a year today, and forecast to grow to $25 billion in 1978.

It is also significant that the assimilation of computer technology has proceeded in a relatively orderly fashion — with many industries making good use of computers in areas where there are many routine-type jobs and a chronic shortage of people equipped to do them. Banking, insurance, finance, government, have been among the biggest users. Process industries like oil, chemicals, steel, and technical industries like the electrical and aerospace were also early extensive users. The modern airline could hardly be operated without computers. And computers look like they are going to be of great value in reducing costs in such essential services as medical care and education.

With continued "balance" in our economy's growth, this pattern of integration may continue into the next decade. A Labor Department Survey of America's Industrial and Occupational Manpower Requirements 1964-75 predicts that, although there will be some major employment shifts, the overall demand for workers will grow sharply, and that while professional and technical workers will be in greatest demand "the overall demand for less-skilled workers will not decrease over this 11-year period."

WITH THE INCREASING use of computers and information technology we may expect to see a very great acceleration in the continuous process of job improvement and development of people. The computer is, after all, the perfect moron. It must be told what to do — told by people. Thus, in order to capitalize on its prodigious powers to do what it's told, managers and employees will be challenged to be better educated, to think more, to communicate better — while at the same time opening up ways, even for the disadvantaged, to make education a lifelong affair.

It is perhaps in relation to this — meeting the challenges of the underdeveloped person, as well as those of the underdeveloped nations — that the new technology finds its greatest promise in the fulfillment of human purposes.

For, given the needs and resources of the world, we obviously must find ways to stimulate economic growth and healthy competition in judicious balance, ways to create a desire for progress among all who fear and resist it, ways to involve governments, companies and labor unions alike in the tasks of making the underdeveloped nation and the underdeveloped person a part of the solution, rather than part of the problem.

It is in the fulfillment of this early prediction about automation, that it would lead to "the human use of human beings," that the new information technology may make its greatest contribution in the coming decades.

A Helping Hand For Firemen

There is no excuse for Congress to dawdle over the question of federal legislation to protect firemen.

Fire chiefs across the nation have called for swift enactment of a proposal by Sen. Frank J. Lausche, D-O., imposing a five-year prison term on anyone interfering with a fireman or policeman performing his duty during a riot.

We can see, but do not condone, the mental attitude of rioters who resist the efforts of policemen to restore order but it is inconceivable they would shoot down unarmed firemen trying to protect property.

Firemen are not law enforcement agents. They are concerned with doing a job. That job is to extinguish fires and rescue anyone trapped by them.

In riot situations they need all the help they can get instead of having to dodge bullets and clubs.

The consequences of a riot are bad enough

without the addition of uncontrolled fire damage brought on by firemen being unable to move into areas when a blaze first breaks out.

So far in the long siege of riots, firemen have performed remarkably well under the circumstances. In the recent Detroit holocaust, performance of the firemen neared the heroic level a number of times.

But there is a limit to how far these men should be asked to go.

We feel that limit has been reached. The time has come to give firemen a break.

Firefighting isn't an easy job at best and legislation must be enacted to give them some degree of safety from mob violence as they seek to protect the property of all citizens.

Legislation alone will not eradicate the whole problem. But it will help to deter some of the senseless abuse, and moreover, it will be a public token of appreciation for the job our firemen are doing.

The Uninoculated

Sgt. Ralph Rizzo, the genial Ohio Highway Patrol commander at Lisbon, poses an interesting medical research problem the solution to which could solve some of the carnage on our highways.

"If we were only able to inject into the careless and irresponsible motorist some serum of maturity or of common sense," he muses during his talks before various groups across the county.

Just plain common sense certainly would cut down on the deaths, pain, anguish, repair bills and incidents connected with a moment's carelessness behind the steering wheel.

A look at the terminology of traffic violations betrays us. What rational human being would "drive left of center," "fail to yield the right of way," "pass at the crest of a hill," "speed too fast for conditions"?

Quickly, Doc! Let's get started with the white rats, the test tubes, the elixir of common sense. Until then, Sgt. Rizzo and his men and police officers elsewhere, along with the hospital personnel, wrecker crews, ambulance drivers, judges and jailers will have to wipe up, sew up, clean up, write up and send up the immature, the uninoculated.

No Pampering For Pooches

It's a sobering thought to learn people are seeking professional help to learn how to get along with their dogs.

And it lessens the shock only a little to know this is going on in such places as Beverly Hills, Calif., where the psychiatrist's couch is as essential to the well-adjusted life as the private swimming pool and the vintage car.

This intriguing aspect of life and times of modern man, circa 1967, is revealed in an exhaustive study by The Wall Street Journal which will on occasion go to the dogs to bring its readers basic news.

The study also discloses that dogs are reasonable and even dislike pretentious doghouses.

It is, in fact, this spartan canine attitude in the face of owner insistence on forcing fancy doghouses on them that brings dogs and their masters to such imposing establishments as the Canine Behavior Institute of Beverly Hills for what the institute calls "psychological adjustment" of the parties concerned.

A MOMENT OF MEDITATION

Paul Teaches Felix

We read in the 24th chapter of the book of Acts concerning the Apostle Paul during the time that he was in prison. He had been placed in prison because of his faith in Christ and His word. As we read about this we find this statement in Acts 24:24, 25. "And after certain days, when Felix came with his wife Drusilla, which was a Jewess, he sent for Paul, and heard him concerning the faith in Christ. And as he reasoned of righteousness, temperance, and judgment to come, Felix trembled, and answered, 'Go thy way for this time; when I have a convenient season, I will call for thee.' In studying this account, it is very obvious that Felix was not yet ready to change his life. He wanted to put off for a convenient time, his obedience to the God in Heaven. As far as we know, this convenient time never did come for this man. We have no account telling us of his becoming a Christian. He trembled but was not sufficiently moved to make his calling and election sure. How sad it is to see a person this close to salvation and yet not take advantage of it.

The Scriptures tell us that Paul reasoned with him about righteousness. The word "righteousness" merely means "right doing." Thus Paul was trying to help Felix to see the need for living in a right manner. Many of us today need this type of lesson. We have become so concerned about the fulfillment of our own desires that many have just about forgotten that they are responsible in the sight of God to live soberly, righteously and godly in this present world. Titus 2:11, 12.

We also learn that Paul taught about temperance or self-control. This characteristic is also much needed by all who expect to please God. God intended that we exercise some control over our desires.

Finally, we learn that Paul spoke of the Judgment day that is to come. All of us will one day appear before God to account to Him for what we have done while we lived here on the earth. 2 Cor. 5:10. This is an appointment that we all must face, just as we must face an appointment with death. Heb. 9:27. "And as it is appointed unto men once to die, but after this the judgment." We may get away with living wicked lives while we live here but we must not forget that judgment is coming. The thought of judgment is not a pleasant thought to the person who is not right with God. Thus Felix trembled.

Take just a few minutes and think about right-living, self-control and of the coming judgment. These are sufficient reasons for me to repent and be baptized as the Lord commanded.

Chester Sets Registration For Students

Pre-school registration for all students entering classes for the first time will be held next Thursday and Friday for Chester elementary schools.

Thayer Allison, principal of both the intermediate and primary buildings, said the primary building will be open from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. each day for the sign-up.

He urges parents to complete the registration on one of the two days in order to eliminate any confusion the first day of school Aug. 31.

He also pointed out that no child will be admitted unless immunized against smallpox, diphtheria, polio, measles, tetanus and whooping cough.

If the "shots" haven't been given, a certificate must be presented from a physician explaining why.

Each beginner also must present a birth certificate. Students must be 6 on or before next Oct. 31 to be eligible to attend classes.

Allison said classroom assignments will be posted on the door of each school Aug. 30.

The milk and hot lunch program will begin Sept. 5, with money for two days being collected Sept. 1. Milk will cost 3 cents per day and lunches 30 cents per day.

FLY THE FLAG EVERY SUNDAY

Few Americans are not distressed at this nation's involvement in the Vietnam conflict with its terrible cost of lives.

But this nation is presently committed to a firm policy in Southeast Asia, and our servicemen over there deserve the kind of tribute which the Chester Kiwanis Club is urging — a display of the American Flag every Sunday.

Fly your Flag tomorrow as a symbol of your belief in the America of the past, the present and the years to come.

Great Variety Of Clothing Viewable In East Liverpool's Sidewalk Scenery

Photos By Norma Jean Liberatore

Time was when a trip downtown in East Liverpool meant nothing less than a good dress, bonnet and high heels or a coat, hat and tie.

But informality has become the word here and across the nation, although there are those who hew closer to the standards of attire which call for a bit of clothes consciousness, a touch of dignity, and awareness of flair.

For most, comfort's the thing in summer, whether buying school clothes, window shopping, paying bills, girl watching, boy baiting, street chatting, check cashing or what.

The downtown pedestrian parade still offers an interesting variety of shorts, slacks, tent dresses, skirts, sports jackets, sweaters, colored shirts, suits, caps, hats and assorted footwear, along with a multitude of sizes and shapes within.

One can see just about everything from a white-gloved sophisticate to a wild-haired teenybopper with curlers, halter and chewing gum.

Sidewalk scenery? There's nothing in the movies, on TV or from Broadway which can compare . . .

And the rains came!

I spent last week camping at Blue Rock State Park, Muskingum County, with my family.

This was the first extended camping session for my wife Joanne and the children, and it proved to be quite an experience for all.

Naturally, as in most ventures, there were several incidents that will remain with us for years to come.

The campground was crowded when we arrived on Sunday afternoon, so we picked the best of three available sites. It was on a slight slope and the only way we could arrange the tent was with the opening facing up the grade.

About an hour after we were set up, the camp cleared of the "weekenders", leaving only about 10 campers.

THE WEATHER WAS very cooperative Monday, and Tuesday was a beautiful day. That evening I decided to go bass fishing. The sky was blue, not a cloud in sight, and the weather warm.

I reached the middle of the lake and from nowhere came a deluge. It rained so hard that before I could row back to the dock my pockets were full of water.

I sloshed through the mud back to camp and was greeted by the sight of my wife, who had her head through the flaps, holding up the front of the tent while the water gurgled in little rivulets beneath the floor.

Within the next hour, everything went wrong. One daughter got burned, then pinched her finger in a folding chair. The camp stove failed to operate and there was no hot coffee to warm me. Another daughter took a tumble. All the articles stored outside were soaked.

After getting everything back in shape, I went inside the tent—where amazingly it was dry—to change clothing. I was shivering with cold, and in my haste, placed my wallet on top of a propane gas lantern. It was leather and the heat shrank it into a little ball.

THE FAMILY CAME through in grand style, however, with everyone taking the experience in stride.

There was very little talking when we crawled into our sleeping bags that night—everyone was too tired.

It took a cheering word from our "neighbors," Max and Dorothy Harder of Oak Harbor, to lift our spirits and put us back in line. Later one of the camp stoves caught fire and Max put it out.

The weather was cool the remainder of the week, but it didn't rain anymore. Max and Dorothy said it was because I didn't go fishing again. We became good friends, and hope to spend some time together again in the future. Camp coffee seems to taste much better when it is being shared with friends around a fire at night.

THERE APPEARS TO be an abundance of rabbits in the Blue Rock area this year, but not many squirrels.

I checked out some woods near the camp and although there were large beech, oak and hickory trees, none had an abundance of mast. The surprising note along this line was the fact the walnut trees seemed full of nuts.

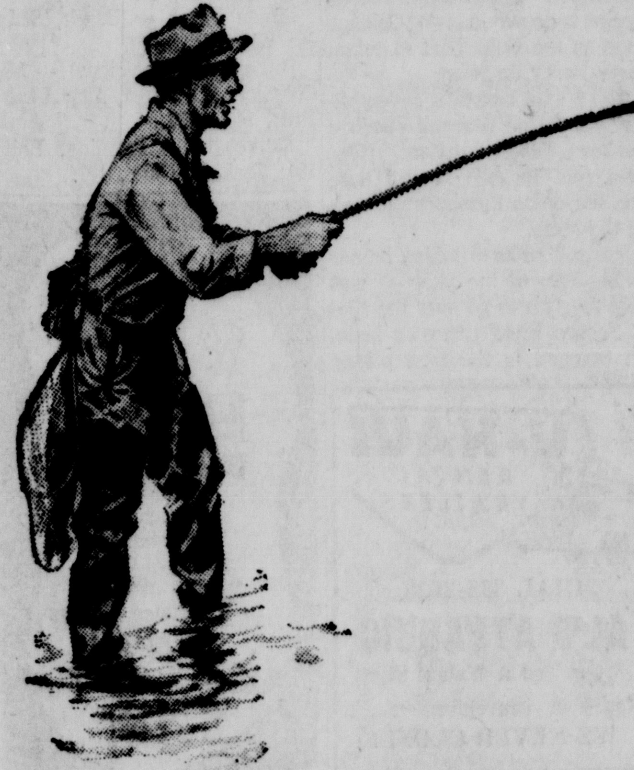

There were a few grey squirrels, but even the park rangers said they had not seen any fox squirrels.

The fishing was not very good, although I understand spring and fall.

The lake produces some nice four and five pounders in the fall. The camping area is extremely scenic and is very clean. All in all, it is a nice place for a family.

UNSETTLED WEATHER plagued a recent camping trip to Michigan for Fire Chief Robert Lewis and family of Wellsville.

Bob says the fishing was poor, but the countryside was beautiful. He found the camping area where he planned to stay was completely full—this after driving all day.

Luckily a resident of Jackson, Mich., came to his rescue and set him up for a weekend in a private camping area.

Bob later made reservations at another private camp in the Coldwater-Three Rivers area where he spent the remainder of his time.

I WILL BE FISHING in near virgin waters by the time this article is published—that is if all goes well.

My father, Lester Stewart of Ohio Ave., my oldest son, Jeff, Junior Yeater of Chester, and I should be on Shiner Lake in northern Ontario at this time today.

The lake is located near Foleyette, where we will leave our car and go by logging train 29 miles back into the bush. The entire trip is more than 850 miles from East Liverpool.

There is one lone cabin on the lake, which is three miles long and a mile wide. It is above the "bass line," but there are plenty of walleyes and northern pike.

We talked with the owner of the cabin this week and he says northern pike 15 pounds and bigger are "common." That's the kind of common fishing I like.

Moose and bear are plentiful, he says, and frequent the area of the cabin.

GOOD BASS FISHING at East Lake, Ontario, Canada, was reported by Bob Poole of Westfield.

He spent a week there with his parents and other members of the family.

Bob says they also caught several northern pike and some pickerel.

GOURMET'S DELIGHT—RAW GROUSE! A grouse is a very tasty bird and is prized by hunters in Ohio, Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

For this reason a headline on a recent news story from London caught my eye. In part it said "Americans Don't Relish The Bird." And small wonder.

It is the custom of British gourmets to eat the bird practically raw. As the season lengthens, the grouse are served raw and as it progresses even more, they are served in a state approaching rotten.

Grouse season opened a week ago in the Scottish and Yorkshire moors and birds by the hundreds are shipped to posh hotels in London to be served in this manner.

Grouse are served two at a time and each diner is expected to eat both.

All I can say is "I'm glad I'm not a gourmet." I'll take my grouse stuffed and baked or fried in butter.

A WHOPPER BLUEGILL was caught recently by Melody Brandie, 12, of Cream City near Ironton.

Melody, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cicero Brandie, caught the panfish in a small creek in Jefferson County.

It was 9½ inches long and was about 5 inches wide. Although not a state record, the fish ranks right up there.

The family froze the fish so it can be kept as proof of its size.

WEST VIRGINIA fishermen might have better luck this weekend in the twilight and evening hours, the State Department of Natural Resources reports.

Mostly clear and low streams and cool nights point to the fisherman's favor, the department added.

A general forecast promises good fishing for warm-water species either day or night.

Several anglers have reported good bass catches with crayfish and rangers at Summersville Lake and Reservoir have reported some giant-sized bluegill prizes.

The department also said fishermen at the New River at Hawks Nest are landing white bass measuring 15 and 16 inches in length.

Stream conditions by area:

EASTERN PANHANDLE—South Branch of Potomac, Shenandoah, Patterson Creek, Sleepy Creek Lake, all normal and clear.

EAST CENTRAL—East and West Fork Greenbrier, Little River, Shaver's Fork at Cheat River, all low and clear.

CENTRAL—Tea Creek, low and clear; Williams River near deadwaters, normal and milky; Cranberry River, Elk at Webster Springs, Cherry River, Elk at Queen Shoals, Elk at Sutton, Sutton Lake and tailwaters, Summersville Lake and tailwaters, normal and clear; Back Fork of Elk, low and clear.

SOUTHEASTERN—Anthony Creek and Culverson Creek, Greenbrier at Lewisburg, Greenbrier at Bellepoint, New River at Hinton, Bluestone Lake Moncove Lake at Mossy, Plum Orchard Lake at Mossy, New River at Ansted, Gauley River, all normal and clear.

WESTERN—Little Kanawha near Elizabeth, Middle Island Creek near the Jug, Ohio, all normal and clear.

NORTHERN PANHANDLE—Fish Creek, low and clear; Burches Run Lake, Castlemans Run Lake, normal and clear.

conservation award in Columbiana County.

Chosen by a committee that includes representatives from sportsmen's clubs, Clewell was cited for having retired his farm to wildlife usage.

Clewell will be presented an award during the Columbiana County Fair in front of the grandstand Wednesday at 7 p.m.

You And The Law

A fisherman is free to pursue his sport on any navigable water, but he has no right to trespass upon property of others, either to get there or to fish from the bank.

He must gain access to such water by a public thoroughfare, by wading or boat or by permission of an adjoining land owner. Once having gotten on the navigable water by proper means, the fisherman is free to fish at any point within the confines of the water.

While the fish in public waters belong to the state until legally caught, that does not give fishermen the right to trespass to catch them. There is no legal or natural right for a fisherman to violate the law in pursuit of his sport, even though the fish do not belong to the adjoining land owner.

THE PUBLIC does have broad rights to use navigable waters for fishing, pleasure boating, skating or other recreational purposes. A stream or lake is navigable if it is navigable in fact.

A stream is navigable in fact if it is capable of navigating a boat, skiff, or canoe, and has been used for that purpose. The question as to whether any particular body of water is navigable depends upon the facts in each case.

If a stream or lake is not navigable in fact for any purpose whatsoever, it is not public.

A fisherman using a navigable water has no right to go beyond the water's edge onto the land of an adjoining land owner without his permission.

If water of a navigable lake recedes from its ordinary high mark, no person, without the consent of the owner, may enter upon the portion of the shore thus uncovered down to the actual water mark without being a trespasser. An exception might exist if the water receded below the ordinary low water mark.

Area Service Men In Viet Nam

By LIDA SMITH

The thick, almost impenetrable jungle is one of the enemies American soldiers battle daily in Vietnam, and a city man working at clearing landing zones for aircraft has become a near-expert about the tropical wilderness.

Army Pfc. Daniel Gallagher, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Gallagher of 1025 Hazel St., was staggered by density, heat and other characteristics of the rain forest.

"I've never seen anything so thick!" he wrote home.

"We were out in the field for seven days. Boy, you talk about being hot and dirty. It seemed like the temperature was up in the hundreds. The only time it was cool was in the early morning and evening. The rest of the day was spent in the shade.

"Our mission was to make small landing zones between here and a place called Thong Mau Boy, the jungle we went through! It was so thick that one of the tracks lost a wheel; it just snapped that wheel off like it was nothing. The sprocket which holds the wheel is about six inches thick."

"ANOTHER time one of the tracks had its hatch ripped off. The vines out there hang so low that they just wrapped around the hatch while it was moving and took it right off."

"We had to stay at one of the landing zones for three days while they fixed the wheel on a track, and believe me, we were out in the middle of nowhere, sitting on top of a small hill."

"We were pretty scared because we were there for so long and with only a platoon of infantry with us. They thought we might get hit, but, thank God, nothing happened."

"After that we started back in. We saw a lot of fresh footprints made by the Viet Cong all over the place."

Water is also a problem. "Usually the helicopters fly in water for us, in five gallon cans. But when we can't get any water flown in, we usually get it from the nearest stream. We have pills to purify the water."

Many of our soldiers have suffered a loss of appetite when they've encountered the diets of the Vietnamese, but Gallagher got a chance to see a native lunch "on the hoof"—a snake, about 12 feet long. "You should have seen it!"

You know the big pythons you see up in the Pittsburgh Zoo—the real big ones? Well, while I was going to chow one day, I saw four Vietnamese kids dragging something and there it was—a big python!

"It was about 10 inches in diameter. It was dead though. The kids had killed it by hitting it in the head with some big stones. It was so big that those little kids would have to stop and rest while they dragged it. I asked them what they were going to do with it and they replied, 'Chop chop' or food."

"SOMETIMES, I think the Army is trying to turn us into Vietnamese. They sure have a lot of rice over here—mostly with some kind of sauce or something over it. Boy, it sure is bad."

Pfc. Dan Gallagher holds 'Sunday.'

"Usually when they have that, I just eat the sauce and a slice of bread. I just can't take that rice too well. Back in the States it was usually chicken that they served a lot of, now it's rice. I guess when in Rome, do as the Romans do."

After the recent move to his present base of Phan Rang, Gallagher—described the area as "like being back at McGregor Range, except for one thing, on one side of us is the China Sea. On the other three sides of us, it is real flat and nothing but a big desert."

"To our right is a village—not necessarily big in building size, but it is spread out. It almost looks like a painting."

"I'll bet it's really pretty around home now," he wrote. Over here, there isn't any spring or fall or winter. It's summer all the time. I wouldn't give up Ohio's weather for anything. I guess the winter here is the monsoon season."

"The other night I woke up about four a.m. and was just soaked. It really poured down rain, and the roof over my bed sprang four leaks—and get this, they were the only leaks we had in the whole hooch!"

NEWS OF THE marches, sit-ins and riots filters through to our men, Gallagher said. His comments included the following: "I sure was glad to hear about that 'Loyalty March' they had in New York. It just goes to show you that it is just a minority that does all that stuff."

"It makes a person angry to see how some people can act. If they only knew how good they've got it back in the States. If they would take those people and fly them over here, just to see what it is really like, then maybe they would change their minds. If they could see what Communism does and what it's really like. You just can't really see what it is like just by reading in the newspapers. When you look at these people, you wonder where they get their endurance, fighting this war as long as they have. I know a lot of people would have given up a long time ago."

Gallagher and the man on the track have adopted a dog. "We have a little pup about a month old. We call him 'Sunday' because we don't have too many of those around—every day seems the same. We lose track of time around here very easily."

"As a matter of fact, I usually have to ask somebody what day it is. It will be good to get back to the States and have Sundays and Mondays again."

IN ANOTHER letter to his parents, he commented about the Vietnamese people and their homes—and the things he'd taken for granted when he was home.

"Boy, Mom, you should see the people here. They live in little houses made of mud and some straw. They sure are dirty. Right now I feel as though America is the greatest nation in the world."

"What I wouldn't give for just some ice or cold running water. Its things like that that are missed more than anything over here. I don't think I'll ever take anything for granted after I get back."

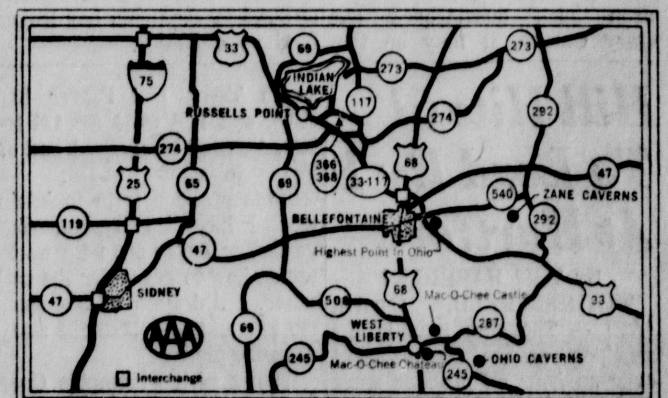

"I've done a lot of thinking since I've been over here. I've got my mind pretty well set on going back to school, when I get out. You know, I've come to appreciate things a whole lot more since I've been over here; I hope I never forget this when I get back to the States. In a way, I am glad that I came over here. It has helped me to grow up."

As many of the men strive to make light of their situation, Gallagher, too, said, "Don't worry about me." But then, as an added comfort to his family—one he probably never realized he offered—he said, "God is with us and he is with us—all the way."

Tri-State Tour Tips

Caves a million years in the making and Ohio's only "castles," imposing structures nearly a century old, highlight a drive into the Logan County countryside around Bellefontaine.

And to begin or end the tour, Indian Lake State Park has attractions to fill an hour or a day, or longer. The huge lake is fine for all water activities, and the surrounding park has good camping and a picnic. Nearby is an amusement park.

Either Ohio Caverns on Ohio 245 near West Liberty or Zane Caverns on Ohio 540 west of Bellefontaine, offer an interesting tour, and, on a hot summer day, respite from the heat. Both are 54 degrees year-round.

Ohio Caverns have striking white and colored formations of stalactites and stalagmites. Hour long tours of the illuminated caverns are run between 8 and 5. A well-kept picnic area provides a shelter house and kiddie amusements. Admission is $1.50 (children 85 cents).

Zane Caverns are one of the few "active" caves, with formations still growing. A tour through lighted passages 132 feet down takes an hour. Hours are 9 to 6, admission is $1.50 (children 75 cents). A playground, and picnicking and hiking area are on the grounds.

The castles are a mile apart on Ohio 245 east of West Liberty. Built by the Piatt brothers, (General Abraham and Colonel Donn), in the 1860's and 1870's, they are well kept and authentically furnished.

Mac-O-Chee Chateau models a French Norman chateau. It has three floors and 35 rooms with a five-story tower. The frescoed ceilings are perfectly preserved. Mac-O-Chee Castle, resembling a Flemish Castle, has three floors and two towers topped by picturesque spires. Both the ceilings and walls are frescoed.

The castles contain relics of the Mac-A-Chee Indians, who lived in the area, and Piatt family possessions collected since the French and Indian War. They are open daily.

You And The Law

A fisherman is free to pursue his sport on any navigable water, but he has no right to trespass upon property of others, either to get there or to fish from the bank.

He must gain access to such water by a public thoroughfare, by wading or boat or by permission of an adjoining land owner. Once having gotten on the navigable water by proper means, the fisherman is free to fish at any point within the confines of the water.

While the fish in public waters belong to the state until legally caught, that does not give fishermen the right to trespass to catch them.

There is no legal or natural right for a fisherman to violate the law in pursuit of his sport, even though the fish do not belong to the adjoining land owner.

THE PUBLIC does have broad rights to use navigable waters for fishing, pleasure boating, skating or other recreational purposes. A stream or lake is navigable if it is navigable in fact.

A stream is navigable in fact if it is capable of navigating a boat, skiff, or canoe, and has been used for that purpose. The question as to whether any particular body of water is navigable depends upon the facts in each case.

If a stream or lake is not navigable in fact for any purpose whatsoever, it is not public.

A fisherman using a navigable water has no right to go beyond the water's edge onto the land of an adjoining land owner without his permission.

If water of a navigable lake recedes from its ordinary high mark, no person, without the consent of the owner, may enter upon the portion of the shore thus uncovered down to the actual water mark without being a trespasser. An exception might exist if the water receded below the ordinary low water mark.

Area Service Men In Viet Nam

By LIDA SMITH

The thick, almost impenetrable jungle is one of the enemies American soldiers battle daily in Vietnam, and a city man working at clearing landing zones for aircraft has become a near-expert about the tropical wilderness.

Army Pfc. Daniel Gallagher, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Gallagher of 1025 Hazel St., was staggered by density, heat and other characteristics of the rain forest.

"I've never seen anything so thick!" he wrote home.

"We were out in the field for seven days. Boy, you talk about being hot and dirty. It seemed like the temperature was up in the hundreds. The only time it was cool was in the early morning and evening. The rest of the day was spent in the shade.

"Our mission was to make small landing zones between here and a place called Thong Mau Boy, the jungle we went through! It was so thick that one of the tracks lost a wheel; it just snapped that wheel off like it was nothing. The sprocket which holds the wheel is about six inches thick."

"ANOTHER time one of the tracks had its hatch ripped off. The vines out there hang so low that they just wrapped around the hatch while it was moving and took it right off."

"We had to stay at one of the landing zones for three days while they fixed the wheel on a track, and believe me, we were out in the middle of nowhere, sitting on top of a small hill.

"We were pretty scared because we were there for so long and with only a platoon of infantry with us. They thought we might get hit, but, thank God, nothing happened."

"After that we started back in. We saw a lot of fresh footprints made by the Viet Cong all over the place."

Water is also a problem. "Usually the helicopters fly in water for us, in five gallon cans. But when we can't get any water flown in, we usually get it from the nearest stream. We have pills to purify the water."

Many of our soldiers have suffered a loss of appetite when they've encountered the diets of the Vietnamese, but Gallagher got a chance to see a native lunch "on the hoof"—a snake, about 12 feet long. "You should have seen it! You know the big pythons you see up in the Pittsburgh Zoo—the real big ones? Well, while I was going to chow one day, I saw four Vietnamese kids dragging something and there it was—a big python!"

"It was about 10 inches in diameter. It was dead though. The kids had killed it by hitting it in the head with some big stones. It was so big that those little kids would have to stop and rest while they dragged it. I asked them what they were going to do with it and they replied, 'Chop chop' or food."

"SOMETIMES, I think the Army is trying to turn us into Vietnamese. They sure have a lot of rice over here—mostly by some kind of sauce or something over it. Boy, it sure is bad.

Either Ohio Caverns on Ohio 245 near West Liberty or Zane Caverns on Ohio 540 west of Bellefontaine, offer an interesting tour, and, on a hot summer day, respite from the heat. Both are 54 degrees year-round.

Ohio Caverns have striking white and colored formations of stalactites and stalagmites. Hour long tours of the illuminated caverns are run between 8 and 5. A well-kept picnic area provides a shelter house and kiddy amusements. Admission is $1.50 (children 85 cents).

Zane Caverns are one of the few "active" caves, with formations still growing. A tour through lighted passages 132 feet down takes an hour. Hours are 9 to 6, admission is $1.50 (children 75 cents). A playground, and picnicking and hiking area are on the grounds.

"Usually when they have that, I just eat the sauce and a slice of bread. I just can't take that rice too well. Back in the States it was usually chicken that they served a lot of, now its rice. I guess when in Rome, do as the Romans do."

After the recent move to his present base of Phan Rang, Gallagher—described the area as "like being back at McGregor Range, except for one thing, on one side of us is the China Sea. On the other three sides of us, it is real flat and nothing but a big desert."

"To our right is a village—not necessarily big in building size, but it is spread out. It almost looks like a painting."

"I'll bet its really pretty around home now," he wrote. Over here, there isn't any spring or fall or winter. It's summer all the time. I wouldn't give up Ohio's weather for anything. I guess the winter here is the monsoon season."

"The other night I woke up about four a.m. and was just soaked. It really poured down rain, and the roof over my bed sprang four leaks—and get this, they were the only leaks we had in the whole hooch!"

NEWS OF THE marches, sit-ins and riots filters through to our men, Gallagher said. His comments included the following: "I sure was glad to hear about that 'Loyalty March' they had in New York. It just goes to show you that it is just a minority that does all that stuff."

"It makes a person angry to see how some people can act. If they only knew how good they've got it back in the States. If they would take those people and fly them over here, just to see what it is really like, then maybe they would change their minds. If they could see what Communism does and what it's really like. You just can't really see what it is like just by reading in the newspapers. When you look at these people, you wonder where they get their endurance, fighting this war as long as they have. I know a lot of people would have given up a long time ago."

Gallagher and the man on the track have adopted a dog.

"We have a little pup about a month old. We call him 'Sunday' because we don't have too many of those around—every day seems the same. We lose track of time around here very easily.

"As a matter of fact, I usually have to ask somebody what day it is. It will be good to get back to the States and have Sundays and Mondays again."

IN ANOTHER letter to his parents, he commented about the Vietnamese people and their homes—and the things he'd taken for granted when he was home.

"Boy, Mom, you should see the people here. They live in little houses made of mud and some straw. They sure are dirty. Right now I feel as though America is the greatest nation in the world."

"What I wouldn't give for just some ice or cold running water. Its things like that that are missed more than anything over here. I don't think I'll ever take anything for granted after I get back."

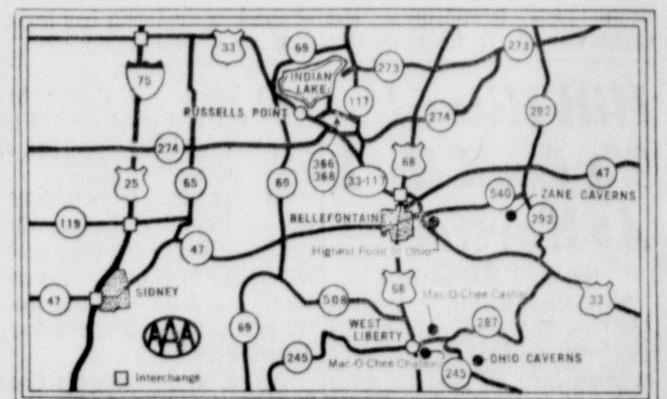

"I've done a lot of thinking since I've been over here. I've got my mind pretty well set on going back to school, when I get out. You know, I've come to appreciate things a whole lot more since I've been over here; I hope I never forget this when I get back to the States. In a way, I am glad that I came over here. It has helped me to grow up."

As many of the men strive to make light of their situation, Gallagher, too, said, "Don't worry about me." But then, as an added comfort to his family—one he probably never realized he offered—he said, "God is with us and he is with us—all the way."

Boston's Conigliaro Injured In 3-2 Win Over Angels

By RON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
The only hit the California Angels could make for 6 1-3 innings Friday night was one by their pitcher and it's still got the Boston Red Sox plenty worried.

Conigliaro was rushed to the hospital where the diagnosis was a cracked cheek bone, severe nasal hemorrhage and three weeks out of the line-up. The first two will bother Tony, but the Red Sox, still fighting for the American League pennant, are sure to feel the effects of the latter.

Gary Bell stopped California without a hit until with one out in the seventh inning, Jimmie Hall hit his 14th homer over the left-field screen. Hall followed with another homer in the ninth. Bell led the Boston hitting attack, too, connecting for a double and a run-scoring single. Rico Petrocelli tripled in another run and scored on a bad relay throw to the plate by Jim Fregosi.

In other American League games, New York and Minnesota split a two-night doubleheader 1-0 and 3-4, Washington edged Kansas City 7-6, Detroit stopped Cleveland 4-0 in a rain-shortened affair and Chicago split with Baltimore, winning 3-1 before losing 8-2.

Joe Pepitone drove in a run with a single in the first inning of the Twins-Yankees opener and Steve Barber made it stand up the rest of the game, shutting out the Twins on six hits.

The Yanks were winning the nightcap 3-2 behind Fred Tolbot's five-hit pitching, when Rich Reese turned things around with a two-run pinch homer in the ninth. Harmon Killebrew drove in two runs with sacrifice flies.

Tim Cullen's three run homer in the ninth inning boosted the Senators past Kansas City. Jim Hunter and Ken Harrelson each had two runs batted in for the Athletics, and Paul Casanova hit a three-run shot for Washington.

Eddie Mathews drove in a run in his debut with Detroit, and Mickey Lolich stopped Cleveland on four hits before the rains came. Mathews' RBI came on a single in the second inning as he started at third for the injured Don Wert.

Conigliaro Seen Out For 3 Weeks

Boston (AP) — What happens to a ball club, such as the Boston Red Sox, when it loses a slugger like Tony Conigliaro while in a dogfight for the pennant?

The Red Sox, only three games behind first place Minnesota in the American League, are going to find out while Conigliaro recuperates from a fractured left cheekbone.

The 22-year-old outfielder was hit just below the protective batting helmet by a fast ball thrown by Jack Hamilton of the California Angels and carried from the field on a stretcher in the fourth inning of the Red Sox 3-2 victory Friday night.

Conigliaro was taken to a nearby hospital, where X-rays disclosed the fracture. He also suffered a severe nasal hemorrhage and hematoma of the left side of the scalp.

"He'll be kept under close observation for 48 to 72 hours," Dr. Thomas Tierney, the Boston team physician, said. "He'll be out at least three or four weeks. We'll know better after the observation period."

"Gosh, I hope he's all right," Hamilton said. "He's a fine ball player. The ball took off a little, and he appeared to freeze. Nobody in the league crowds the plate more than he does."

Conigliaro singled for the first hit off Hamilton in the second inning, raising his average to .289. With two out in the fourth, Hamilton fired a fast ball on the first pitch. The sound of the ball hitting Tony C. was heard in the press box.

"It was a fast ball all the way," first base coach Bobby Doerr said. "It just sailed up and in on him. I don't think Tony moved a bit."

Taylor Will Carry Heavy Load Of N. Orleans Team

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer
SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Jim Taylor and Paul Hornung are back together again. Only this time it's New Orleans, not Green Bay, and Hornung watches from the sidelines as an assistant coach and radio announcer. It will be up to Taylor to carry the heavy load for this newest expansion team in the National Football League.

Going into tonight's game at Baton Rouge, La., against the Pittsburgh Steelers, the Saints are a surprising 1-1 in pre-season play. They hung in close with Los Angeles before losing when Taylor dropped a potential touchdown pass. Then they upset the St. Louis Cardinals 23-14.

Tom Fears, who traveled the same route last year as an assistant coach with Atlanta's expansion team, has taken a lesson from his experience. Fears is concentrating on defense in his new job as head coach of the New Orleans entry.

"Every expansion club always has been weak on defense," said Fears at the Saints' training camp at California Western University before taking off for Baton Rouge. Last year at Atlanta we'd have the ball for three downs and then kick. They would keep it eight or nine minutes before we got it back. Sometimes you'd play a whole quarter and only run six or seven plays.

"I learned long ago at Green Bay that ball control is the name of the game. Our offense is strong at the heart—quarterback. We decided to start building from there. I am letting Taylor bring himself along slowly. He had a little weight to take off when he came to camp.

Because the Saints' offensive line figures to be a patchwork job that may have trouble maintaining a passing pocket for a drop back quarterback like Gary Cuozzo, it may be that

Billy Kilmer will handle the big load at the start.

Except for Taylor, the Saints must depend on untried men as running backs. Don McCall, top runner for Southern Cal in the Rose Bowl, has been running in the halfback spot and Les Kelley of Alabama has impressed as a hard runner.

Tom Barrington, former Washington Redskins, and John Gilliam of South Carolina State, have been getting a look.

Split end Jerry Simmons of the St. Louis Cards, flanker Tom Hall of the Minnesota Vikings and tight end Kent Krammer of the San Francisco 49ers probably will be the starters.

Del Williams, a rookie from Florida State, has been a pleasant surprise at guard. The others on the offensive line probably will be men from the expansion draft. Tackles Ray Rissmiller of Philadelphia and Bill Sandeman of Dallas, guard Jake Kupp of Washington and center Joe Wendryhoski of Los Angeles probably will start.

Brian Schweda of the Chicago Bears and Jim Garcia of the New York Giants are the defensive ends. Rookie Dave Rowe of Penn State will be one tackle. Earl Leggett of the Bears or injured Mike Tilleran of Minnesota will man the other side.

Two ex-Baltimore Colts, Steve Stonebreaker and Ted Davis, will be regulars with Fred Whittingham of Philadelphia in the middle. Dave Whitsell of the Bears, rookie John Douglas of Texas Southern, Jim Heidel of St. Louis and Overt Logan of Dallas figure in the defensive backfield. Bruce Cortz of Parsons College is making a solid bid.

Charles Durkee, a rookie from Oklahoma State, nailed down a job with three field goals against St. Louis. Tom McNeill of Stephen F. Austin has looked good as a punter.

Hill Hits 61 To Lead By 1 At Hartford

By TOM HARRIGAN
WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (AP) — The slim man in the shocking orange slacks spent over an hour on practice shots after playing in the second round of the $100,000 Greater Hartford Open — not because Dave Hill had any faults to correct — but to keep the form which gave him a 10-under-par 61 Friday.

"I practice every day of my life," the 30-year-old Hill said as he watched eight-irons landing a few feet in front of his caddy. "It's a humiliating game, 61 one day, 72 the next, but I'm glad it's vice versa this week."

Hill's 61 Friday added to Thursday's 72 gave him a 133 total and a one-stroke edge over South African Gary Player and Texas Terry Dill Player had 65-69, and Dill 66-68 for 134 totals. Veteran Doug Ford had 67 Friday to fall next at 135.

"This practice is to maintain what I have," Hill said, "but yesterday I was out here working on how to get under the ball better. I'd been hitting shots too low and they bounced away from the pin."

Winner of the Memphis Open in May when he led from start to finish, Hill had 10 birdies and eight pars on his Wethersfield Country Club card Friday.

Only two of his birdie putts, rolling in from 35 and 18 feet, were of the "hit it and hope" variety. He made five birdies on putts of less than five feet, the rest from about 10 feet, attesting to complete success of his Thursday practice session with the irons.

With 32 hole-in-ones for football. Purdue has the most letter winners returning among Big Ten teams this season.

Miracle Hill Wins Derby

Miracle Hill, a Kentucky bred flash of lightning, vanned to Waterford Park from Detroit, last night ended the reign of the Canadians in the West Virginia Derby. Ridden by Bobby Gallimore who arrived only a few hours before the race, Miracle Hill led no doubt as to his superiority in the field of seven by assuming command in the mile and one eighth race before the field reached the stretch turn.

Once in front Miracle Hill romped to an easy victory as Gallimore rode the winner all the way to the finish wire four lengths to the good. Following him to the wire was More of Mort, winner of the Quebec Derby and the hope of trainer Pat

Santo to make it five West Virginia Derbies in a row. More of Mort made a run at the winner, but he was no match. Air Boat, winner of the West Virginia Derby Prep a week ago, finished third six lengths back of More of Mort.

Amber Am, Mike Douglas and dr. Sin battled for the early lead, but were soon met with the challenge of the two top finishers. Once this pair got into high gear it was strictly between them and that's the way it was with the U.S. bred horse far outdistancing More of Mort which was bred in Canada.

A crowd of 5,842 was on hand. Sharon Whitley, Miss West Virginia Derby Queen presented the trophy to Dewey Smith, trainer of the winner which is owned jointly by T. A. and J. E. Grissom.

While the West Virginia Derby by crowd at Waterford Park tonight thrilled to the triumph of Miracle Hill in the big money event, the fans, a few of them, got their big thrill at the finish of the tenth and final race.

The result of that one, a perfecta race, brought a return of $1,273.60 as Island Joy (37.00) won and Cheat N Steal placed at 24.00. It was the largest perfecta payoff since the Waterford season started.

There were 22 tickets sold on the 3-9 combination.

Girls Splash To New Records In AAU Event

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
Associated Press Sports Writer
PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Claudia Kolb and Debbie Meyer, a pair of California mermaids, proved an old adage in sports—it's the little things that make the difference between ordinary and the extraordinary performances.

The 17-year-old Miss Kolb of the Santa Clara (Calif.) S.C. and the baby-faced Miss Meyer of Sacramento, Calif.'s Arden Hills S.C., each set new unofficial world records Friday in the Women's Outdoor National AAU Swimming and Diving Championships at Kelly Pool.

Miss Kolb, who humbly refuses the designation of many experts as the U.S.'s top woman swimmer, broke her existing world mark of 2:29.8 in the 200-meter individual medley for the third time this year with a 2:25.0 clocking. The 15-year-old Miss Meyer clipped nine seconds off the 400-meter freestyle record of 4:38, set in 1965 by Philadelphia's Martha Randall. She also bettered her own pending record for the event of 4:32.6, set in last month's Pan American Games at Winnipeg, Canada.

In other events on the second day of the four-day nationals, Lt. Micki King of the U.S. Air Force became the first double winner when she added the three-meter springboard diving championship to her Thursday triumph in the one-meter dive. Kendis Moore, 18-year-old swimmer of the Scottsdale, Ariz., Desert Rats, took the 100-meter backstroke in 1:09.2, and the Santa Clara club set a U.S. record of 8:53.0 in winning the 800-meter freestyle relay.

Now, back to those little things.

Miss Kolb attributed her record ord victory to the grip turns at Kelly pool. She said she got much more leverage and push-off with these grips than she did in the Pan Am games. The Santa Clara High School senior, who said she has no college preference or idea of what she wants to study, also credited "the best breaststroke I've ever done and a strong freestyle" for her spectacular performance.

Miss Meyer said her record pace was due principally to "an unusually fast start and turns that were far better than I've been doing." The 10th grade pupil at Rio American High School in Sacramento who plans to go to UCLA as a physical education major, has her sights set on lowering her pending 1,500-meter world record of 18:11.1. She said she hoped to break 18 minutes, a tall order for a little girl.

Net 13-4 Mark During August As Runaway Continues

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

The vise-tight pennant race so long a trademark of the National League has been only a hazy memory this August, and the St. Louis Cardinals seem determined to keep it that way.

The red-hot Cardinals spun off their seventh straight victory Friday night, whipping Houston ever to put two in that sector in one season.

Ray Sadecki hurled a six-hitter and Jesus Alou lined four hits and drove in two runs as the Giants dropped the Reds.

Willie Mays' fifth inning single snapped a 1-1 tie and Alou's fourth hit of the game brought in another Giant run in the eighth as San Francisco beat Milt Pappas, 12-8. Sadecki is 5-4.

Lou Johnson slammed two home runs and Don Drysdale won his first game since July 15 as the Dodgers sunk the Braves. Johnson connected in the first and fourth innings against loser Denny Lemaster and then walked and scored in the Dodgers' three-run wrapup rally in the sixth.

Tri-State Football Coaches Sate Meeting

There will be a meeting of the Tri-State Little League football league Sunday at 7:30 at the Ohio Valley Gas Office on Sixth St. All coaches are asked to attend.

5-3 on Steve Carlton's six-hitter. The victory ballooned the Cards' league lead to 11½ games.

St. Louis has shattered the race with a torrid 13-4 pace this month. They led by just 3½ games as the month began, but won five straight games and have been just about unstoppable ever since.

Carlton struck out 11 Friday night and didn't allow a hit after the sixth inning. Julian Javier and Mike Shannon handled the hitting, each smashing a home run and driving in a pair of runs.

Elsewhere in the National League, Chicago tripped Philadelphia 3-1, Pittsburgh pounded New York 7-2, San Francisco stopped Cincinnati 3-1 and Los Angeles downed Atlanta 5-1.

Shannon's fourth-inning homer was the first hit off Houston's Mike Cuellar. After Tim McCarver reached on an error, Javier unloaded and the Cards had a 3-0 lead.

Bob Aspromonte's two-run double rocked Carlton in the sixth, but the young left-hander settled down and did not allow another hit. The victory ran his record to 11-6.

Rookie left-hander Jim Ellis won his first major league game and halted a four-game Chicago losing streak as the Cubs dropped the Phillies.

Ellis, recalled from Tacoma August 10, worked into the seventh inning before giving way to Chuck Hartenstein. Glenn Beckert drove in two Chicago runs as the Cubs beat ex-teammate Larry Jackson.

Bob Veale hurled a seven-hitter and Willie Stargell reached Forbes Field's distant right field roof for the second time this season as Pittsburgh pounded the Mets.

Stargell's fourth inning homer — his 17th of the year — was only the 12th to go over the roof in Forbes Field's 59-year history. Stargell is the first player

Boston's Conigliaro Injured In 3-2 Win Over Angels

By RON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

The only hit the California Angels could make for 6 1-3 innings Friday night was one by their pitcher and it's still got the Boston Red Sox plenty worried.

In the fourth inning of Boston's 3-2 victory, Angel starter Jack Hamilton felled Boston slugger Tony Conigliaro by hitting him with a pitch on the left temple and knocking him unconscious.

Conigliaro was rushed to the hospital where the diagnosis was a cracked cheek bone, severe nasal hemorrhage and three weeks out of the line-up. The first two will bother Tony, but the Red Sox, still fighting for the American League pennant, are sure to feel the effects of the latter.

Gary Bell stopped California without a hit until with one out in the seventh inning, Jimmie Hall hit his 14th homer over the left-field screen. Hall followed with another homer in the ninth. Bell led the Boston hitting attack, too, connecting for a double and a run-scoring single. Rico Petrocelli tripled in another run and scored on a bad relay throw to the plate by Jim Fregosi.

In other American League games, New York and Minnesota split a two-night doubleheader 1-0 and 3-4, Washington edged Kansas City 7-6, Detroit stopped Cleveland 4-0 in a rain-shortened affair and Chicago split with Baltimore, winning 3-1 before losing 8-2.

Joe Pepitone drove in a run with a single in the first inning of the Twins-Yankees opener and Steve Barber made it stand up the rest of the game, shutting out the Twins on six hits.

The Yanks were winning the nightcap 3-2 behind Fred Talbot's five-hit pitching, when Rich Reese turned things around with a two-run pinch homer in the ninth. Harmon Killebrew drove in two runs with sacrifice flies.

Tim Cullen's three run homer in the ninth inning boosted the Senators past Kansas City. Jim Hunter and Ken Harrelson each had two runs batted in for the Athletics, and Paul Casanova hit a three-run shot for Washington.

Eddie Mathews drove in a run in his debut with Detroit, and Mickey Lolich stopped Cleveland on four hits before the rains came. Mathews' RBI came on a single in the second inning as he started at third for the injured Don Wert.

The first game at Chicago seemed as if it might never start — a two-hour rain delay slowed things considerably — and the second game seemed as if it might never end. The final out was registered at 1:36 a.m. CDT.

Pete Ward's two-run homer was the deciding factor in the opener and Curt Blefary's three-run homer keyed a five-run Baltimore third in the nightcap.

Conigliaro Seen Out For 3 Weeks

Boston (AP) — What happens to a ball club, such as the Boston Red Sox, when it loses a slugger like Tony Conigliaro while in a dogfight for the pennant?

The Red Sox, only three games behind first place Minnesota in the American League,

East Liverpool Has 87 Grid Candidates

are going to find out while Conigliaro recuperates from a fractured left cheekbone.

The 22-year-old outfielder was hit just below the protective batting helmet by a fast ball thrown by Jack Hamilton of the California Angels and carried from the field on a stretcher in the fourth inning of the Red Sox' 3-2 victory Friday night.

Conigliaro was taken to a nearby hospital, where X-rays disclosed the fracture. He also suffered a severe nasal hemorrhage and hematoma of the left side of the scalp.

"He'll be kept under close observation for 48 to 72 hours," Dr. Thomas Tierney, the Boston team physician, said. "He'll be out at least three or four weeks. We'll know better after the observation period."

"Gosh, I hope he's all right," Hamilton said. "He's a fine ball player. The ball took off a little, and he appeared to freeze. Nobody in the league crowds the plate more than he does."

Conigliaro singled for the first hit off Hamilton in the second inning, raising his average to .289. With two out in the fourth, Hamilton fired a fast ball on the first pitch. The sound of the ball hitting Tony C. was heard in the press box.

"It was a fast ball all the way," first base coach Bobby Doerr said. "It just sailed up and in on him. I don't think Tony moved a bit."

Taylor Will Carry Heavy Load Of N. Orleans Team

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Jim Taylor and Paul Hornung are back together again. Only this time it's New Orleans, not Green Bay, and Hornung watches from the sidelines as an assistant coach and radio announcer. It will be up to Taylor to carry the heavy load for this newest expansion team in the National Football League.

Going into tonight's game at Baton Rouge, La. against the Pittsburgh Steelers, the Saints are a surprising 1-1 in pre-season play. They hung in close with Los Angeles before losing when Taylor dropped a potential touchdown pass. Then they upset the St. Louis Cardinals 23-14.

Tom Fears, who traveled the same route last year as an assistant coach with Atlanta's expansion team, has taken a lesson from his experience. Fears is concentrating on defense in his new job as head coach of the New Orleans entry.

"Every expansion club always has been weak on defense," said Fears at the Saints' training camp at California Western University before taking off for Baton Rouge. Last year at Atlanta we'd have the ball for three downs and then kick. They would keep it eight or nine minutes before we got it back. Sometimes you'd play a whole quarter and only run six or seven plays.

"I learned long ago at Green Bay that ball control is the name of the game. Our offense is strong at the heart—quarterback. We decided to start building from there. I am letting Taylor bring himself along slowly. He had a little weight to take off when he came to camp.

Because the Saints' offensive line figures to be a patchwork job that may have trouble maintaining a passing pocket for a drop back quarterback like Gary Cuozzo, it may be that

Billy Kilmer will handle the big load at the start.

Except for Taylor, the Saints must depend on untried men as running backs. Don McCall, top runner for Southern Cal in the Rose Bowl, has been running in the halfback spot and Les Kelley of Alabama has impressed as a hard runner.

Tom Barrington, former Washington Redskins, and John Gilliam of South Carolina State, have been getting a look.

Split end Jerry Simmons of the St. Louis Cardinals, flanker Tom Hall of the Minnesota Vikings and tight end Kent Kramer of the San Francisco 49ers probably will be the starters.

Del Williams, a rookie from Florida State, has been a pleasant surprise at guard. The others on the offensive line probably will be men from the expansion draft. Tackles Ray Rissmiller of Philadelphia and Bill Sandeman of Dallas, guard Jake Kupp of Washington and center Joe Wendryshski of Los Angeles probably will start.

Brian Schweda of the Chicago Bears and Jim Garcia of the New York Giants are the defensive ends. Rookie Dave Rowe of Penn State will be one tackle. Earl Leggett of the Bears or injured Mike Tilleman of Minnesota will man the other side.

Two ex-Baltimore Colts, Steve Stonebreaker and Ted Davis, will be regulars with Fred Whitingham of Philadelphia in the middle. Dave Whitsell of the Bears, rookie John Douglas of Texas Southern, Jim Heidel of St. Louis and Overt Logan of Dallas figure in the defensive backfield. Bruce Cortz of Parsons College is making a solid bid.

Charles Durkee, a rookie from Oklahoma State, nailed down a job with three field goals against St. Louis. Tom McNeill of Stephen F. Austin has looked good as a punter.

Hill Hits 61 To Lead By 1 At Hartford

By TOM HARRIGAN
WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (AP) — The slim man in the shocking orange slacks spent over an hour on practice shots after playing in the second round of the $100,000 Greater Hartford Open — not because Dave Hill had any faults to correct — but to keep the form which gave him a 10-under-par 61 Friday.

"I practice every day of my life," the 30-year-old Hill said as he whacked eight-irons landing a few feet in front of his caddy. "It's a humiliating game, 61 one day, 72 the next, but I'm glad it's vice versa this week."

Hill's 61 Friday added to Thursday's 72 gave him a 133 total and a one-stroke edge over South African Gary Player and Texan Terry Dill Player had 65-69, and Dill 66-68 for 134 totals. Veteran Doug Ford had 67 Friday to fall next at 135.

"This practice is to maintain what I have," Hill said, "but yesterday I was out here working on how to get under the ball better. . . I'd been hitting shots too low and they bounced away from the pin."

Winner of the Memphis Open in May when he led from start to finish, Hill had 10 birdies and eight pars on his Wethersfield Country Club card Friday.

Only two of his birdie putts, rolling in from 35 and 18 feet, were of the "hit it and hope" variety. He made five birdies on putts of less than five feet, the rest from about 10 feet, attesting to complete success of his Thursday practice session with the irons.

With 32 lettersmen for football, Purdue has the most letter winners returning among Big Ten teams this season.

Miracle Hill Wins Derby

Miracle Hill, a Kentucky bred flash of lightning, vanned to Waterford Park from Detroit, last night ended the reign of the Canadians in the West Virginia Derby. Ridden by Bobby Gallimore who arrived only a few hours before the race, Miracle Hill led no doubt as to his superiority in the field of seven by assuming command in the mile and one eighth race before the field reached the stretch turn.

Once in front Miracle Hill romped to an easy victory as Gallimore rode the winner all the way to the finish wire four lengths to the good. Following him to the wire was More of Mort, winner of the Quebec Derby and the hope of trainer Pat

Santo to make it five West Virginia Derbies in a row. More of Mort made a run at the winner, but he was no match. Air Boat, winner of the West Virginia Derby Prep a week ago, finished third six lengths back of More of Mort.

Amber Am, Mike Douglas and Mr. Sin battled for the early lead, but were soon met with the challenge of the two top finishers. Once this pair got into high gear it was strictly between them and that's the way it was with the U.S. bred horse far outdistancing More of Mort which was bred in Canada.

A crowd of 5,842 was on hand. Sharon Whitley, Miss West Virginia Derby Queen presented the trophy to Dewey Smith, trainer of the winner which is owned jointly by T. A. and J. E. Grissom.

While the West Virginia Derby by crowd at Waterford Park tonight thrilled to the triumph of Miracle Hill in the big money event, the fans, a few of them, got their big thrill at the finish of the tenth and final race.

The result of that one, a perfecta race, brought a return of $1,273.60 as Island Joy (37.00) won and Cheat N Steel placed at 24.00. It was the largest perfecta payoff since the Waterford season started.

There were 22 tickets sold on the 3-9 combination.

Girls Splash To New Records In AAU Event

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Claudia Kolb and Debbie Meyer, a pair of California mermaids, proved an old adage in sports—it's the little things that make the difference between ordinary and the extraordinary performances.

The 17-year-old Miss Kolb of the Santa Clara (Calif.) S.C., and the baby-faced Miss Meyer of Sacramento, Calif.'s Arden Hills S.C., each set new unofficial world records Friday in the Women's Outdoor National AAU Swimming and Diving Championships at Kelly Pool.

Miss Kolb, who humbly refuses the designation of many experts as the U.S.'s top woman swimmer, broke her existing world mark of 2:29.8 in the 200-meter individual medley for the third time this year with a 2:25.0 clocking. The 15-year-old Miss Meyer clipped nine seconds off the 400-meter freestyle.

Now, back to those little things. Miss Kolb attributed her record victory to the grip turns at Kelly pool. She said she got much more leverage and push-off with these grips than she did in the Pan Am games. The Santa Clara High School senior, who said she has no college preference or idea of what she wants to study, also credited "the best breaststroke I've ever done and a strong freestyle" for her spectacular performance.

In other events on the second day of the four-day nationals, Lt. Micki King of the U.S. Air Force became the first double winner when she added the three-meter springboard diving championship to her Thursday triumph in the one-meter dive. Kendis Moore, 18-year-old swimmer of the Scottsdale, Ariz., Desert Rats, took the 100-meter backstroke in 1:09.2, and the Santa Clara club set a U.S. record of 8:53.0 in winning the 800-meter freestyle relay.

Miss Meyer said her record pace was due principally to "an unusually fast start and turns that were far better than I've been doing." The 10th grade pupil at Rio American High School in Sacramento who plans to go to UCLA as a physical education major, has her sights set on lowering her pending 1,500-meter world record of 18:11.1. She said she hoped to break 18 minutes, a tall order for a little girl.

Net 13-4 Mark During August As Runaway Continues

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

The vise-tight pennant race so long a trademark of the National League has been only a hazy memory this August, and the St. Louis Cardinals seem determined to keep it that way.

The red-hot Cardinals spun off their seventh straight victory Friday night, whipping Houston ever to put two in that sector in one season.

Ray Sadecki hurled a six-hitter and Jesus Alou lined four hits and drove in two runs as the Giants dropped the Reds.

Willie Mays' fifth inning single snapped a 1-1 tie and Alou's fourth hit of the game brought in another Giant run in the eighth as San Francisco beat Milt Pappas, 12-8. Sadecki is 5-4.

Lou Johnson slammed two home runs and Don Drysdale won his first game since July 15 as the Dodgers sunk the Braves. Johnson connected in the first and fourth innings against loser Denny Lemaster and then walked and scored in the Dodgers' three-run wrapup rally in the sixth.

Clay Married To Girl 17 In Muslim Rite

By DAVID R. HOLDEN
CHICAGO (AP) — Cassius Clay was married in a quiet ceremony Friday night, enter- tained a few friends and rela- tives at a reception, then took his 17-year-old bride on a sur- prise, friendly visit to neigh- bors.

The 25-year-old prize fighter, recently stripped of his heavy- weight title, and Belinda Boyd were wed in Clay's South Side home in a Black Muslim cere- mony.

Originally scheduled for Sun- day, the wedding was quickly arranged Friday and was closed to the press.

The deposed champion, who prefers his Black Muslim name of Muhammad Ali, said he had been romantically interested in his new wife for more than a year. The bride is the oldest of four children of Raymond Boyd, of suburban Blue Island, him- self a Muslim.

The wedding was attended by the bride's parents, but Clay's mother and father flew in from Louisville, Ky., too late to wit- ness the ceremony.

Miss Boyd wore the simple, floor-length white dress and veil used by female Muslims, while the boxer was attired in a black uxedo jacket.

"It was a very small wed- ding," Clay said after the cere- mony.

Clay was indefinite about hon- eymoon plans, implying that he planned to stay in Chicago for at least a day or two. However, a member of his training camp, Gene Mason, said that Clay and his bride would be on their way to Hawaii today.

Clay politely sidestepped ques- tions about his immediate plans and took leave of reporters when he spied three elderly per- sons on the stairs of the house across the street.

"Excuse me, I'm going to say hello to my neighbors," he said. "I've just moved in and I haven't met any of them yet."

Clay is appealing a prison term he received for refusing to take the military draft oath. He contended he could not take the oath on the grounds that he is a Black Muslim minister.

It was the second marriage for Clay who was divorced from Sonji M. Roi, 27, a former mod- el, last year. Clay said that the marriage was dissolved because his first wife would not become a member of the Muslims and live up to the sect's religious code.

A Junior Editors Quiz About BOOMERANGS

ANSWER: The boomerang is flat on the bottom, with a slightly rounded upper surface like the wing of an airplane. As it spins around and around after being thrown, the air-flow on top has a longer way to travel. It thus exerts less pressure than the air underneath. That is why the boomerang is lifted up and seems to sail until the force of the throw is expended. The Hopi Indians used throwing sticks like this for hunting jackrabbits, it being possible to hurl them 600 feet. Most Australian boomerangs simply fly off towards a target. However, natives along the southern Australian coast give a twist to each arm of their boomerangs. This unbalances the boomerang's flight so that it moves in large circles, finally looping back to the thrower, who, if very expert, can grab it out of the air. Throwing boomerangs is very interesting, but it is also very dangerous, and we can't recommend it as a pastime. A boomerang goes so fast it might maim or even kill a bystander.

Post Office Here Will Begin New Auxiliary Rural Route

Postmaster Samuel W. Brown said the route will consist of portions of rural routes 1, 2 and 3 that now start from the main office.

"The department feels that these existing routes are too large and that taking portions of all three and combining them into a new auxiliary RD 4 will bring them all into line."

Cases are now being labeled and set up for the route. It will be approximately 26 miles in length and have more than 400 stops on it, he said.

"Since this is a new and an auxiliary route, personnel already on the rolls will have to handle it until the department declares it to be of regular status."

Jack K. Hile, who is the regular substitute for RD 2 now, also will handle the new route. Each patron on the route will be notified so that from that time on they may change their number from either 1, 2 or 3 to a 4. There will be no delays in delivery as the other three routes will see that the new RD 4 gets all the mails it should before the route leaves daily.

Brown said this is also true of Mounted Carriers 19-21 and 22, who are transferring portions of their mail to an auxiliary route, which probably will be numbered MC 23. It will get into full service just as soon as the equipment cases arrive.

"All this has been brought about because of urban construction," he added. The present substitutes are handling the new auxiliary mounted route also.

Fines Assessed In Traffic Cases

LISBON — Friday was "Ladies Day" in Columbiana County Southwest Court, where Judge J. L. MacDonald held hearings for seven drivers, four of them women. Fined were: William G. Woods, East Liverpool RD 3, failure to display use tax decal on truck, $25 and costs (fine suspended); Barbara K. Sevek, Hammondsville, driving too fast for conditions, $15 and costs; Sandra T. Brown of 221 N. Beaver St., Lisbon, unsafe vehicle, $10 and costs; Paul C. Guy, Lisbon RD 5, and Donna J. Canja, Lisbon RD 3, both cited for speeding, $10 and costs each; and Ralph D. Kettering, East Rochester RD 1, wrong license plates, $10 and costs. Clara J. Boel, Lisbon RD 5, charged with passing a vehicle on the right, was ordered to pay $5 costs only.

Forfeiting appearance bonds were Sam A. Leon, Wickliffe, and Daniel A. Bezon, Alliance, both charged with speeding, $30 and $20, respectively, and Richard W. Cornelli, Fairborn, unlawful swimming at Guilford Lake, $15.

2 Minor Runs Made By Fire Department

Two minor blazes were quelled by city firemen Friday and early today.

About 1:49 p.m. yesterday, the department answered a call to a Salvation Army container at the A & P parking lot. Minor damage resulted.

At 4:05 a.m. today, an auto backfired through the carburetor, causing damage to the vehicle's wiring.

Department spokesman said the auto is owned by James Taylor of 1735 Main St., Wellsville.

City Hospital Treats 19 In Emergencies

A Hookstown man hurt in a fall was admitted Friday to City Hospital, where 16 other area residents were treated.

Kenneth Nelson of Hookstown, employed by Southern Beaver Schools, was in "satisfactory" condition today with a concussion sustained in a fall on a wet floor while at work.

Treated were James Hillary Johnson of Chester, a fractured fifth toe and possible ankle injuries in a fall down stairs; Jack Jones of 1020 Riverview St., employed at City Hospital, first and second degree burns in an accident at work.

Pat Cook of 1040 St. Clair Ave., a fractured left index finger in a car door, R. B. Boyce of Wellsville RD 1, employed by the Pennsylvania Railroad, a puncture wound of the left foot on a nail.

Joseph West Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph West of 183 1/2 Montana Ave., Chester, contusions of the left elbow and chest in a fall from a porch; Thomas Cumberland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Cumberland of 1653 Park Ave., a fractured right shoulder in a fall while playing football.

Donna Green, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Creston Green of La-Croft, a puncture wound of the left thigh when a dog bit her. Frank Howell, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Howell of Newell, a laceration of the left foot on glass.

Mathew Stipe, son of Mrs. Karen Stipe Jr., of Windsor Heights, Chester, a head injury and abrasions of the left upper arm in a fall while playing. Cheryl Collins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Collins of 817 Price St., a laceration of the left foot on glass.

Ronald Gattrell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Gattrell of 3rd Ave., La-Croft, a fracture of the right forearm in a fall from a tree; James Chaney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Chaney of 801 Carolina Ave., Chester, a fractured left forearm in a fall.

Clifford Lilly, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lilly of 679 Riley Ave., a fractured forearm in a fall from a bike; Marsha L. Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jones of 502 Jefferson St., Newell, abrasions of both elbows and forehead and a contusion of the upper lip in a fall from a bike.

Susan Barnett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Barnett of Toronto RD 2, a fish hook in the right ear while casting; James Thrasher of 1039 Township Line Rd., Wellsville, a severe laceration of the right upper arm when a bottle exploded.

Charred Body Found

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The charred body of John D. Copping, 33, a patient at a nearby Veterans Administration hospital, was found Friday after firemen extinguished a grass fire in a vacant lot.

"I have carried out my act of immolation as a protest of Johnson's war in Vietnam — this, like my final act, is a war of frustration," read a note under a nearby rock.

Jail Escapee Still At Large

LISBON — Police here filed an escape from confinement charge Friday in Columbiana County Southwest Court against Robert Higgs, 23, of 120 W. Washington St.

The escapee is still at large, although he fled in a 1962 Chevrolet four-door sedan with distinctive markings. The car is brown, but the left front fender and door are painted white.

Higgs is charged in mayor's court with petty larceny — 15 used auto batteries taken Aug. 15 from the Mattix service station on N. Market St.

Police were preparing to fingerprint Higgs Thursday evening in their office on the second floor at Village Hall. He asked to use the restroom, opened the window and dropped 20 feet to a cinder drive. He evidently got to his car a couple of blocks away before police discovered he was gone.

They said Higgs came here about six weeks ago from the Martins Ferry area. He is on parole from a West Virginia burglary, they added.

The production of whisky was stopped on Sept. 8, 1917, to conserve grain during World War I.

Patrol, Liquor Fines Turned Over To State

Columbiana County courts turned over $28,897 as the state's 45 per cent share of Highway Patrol fines and $512 as the state's one-half share of liquor violation fines during fiscal 1967, Roger Cloud, state auditor, reports.

Ohio courts assessed and collected a record $4,775,456 in fines from patrol cases, an increase of $1,062,427, 28.6 per cent, over the previous fiscal year when fines totaled $3,713,028.

In Jefferson County, local courts returned $18,950 to the state from patrol arrests and $125 in liquor fines.

Post Office Here Will Begin New Auxiliary Rural Route

Postmaster Samuel W. Brown been notified by the Post Office Department through its Cincinnati regional delivery services branch that effective Aug. 26 a new auxiliary RD 4 rural route will start service from the main post office here.

Brown said the route will consist of portions of rural routes 1, 2 and 3 that now start from the main office.

"The department feels that these existing routes are too large and that taking portions of all three and combining them into a new auxiliary RD 4 will bring them all into line."

Cases are now being labeled and set up for the route. It will be approximately 26 miles in length and have more than 400 stops on it, he said.

"Since this is a new and an auxiliary route, personnel already on the rolls will have to handle it until the department declares it to be of regular status."

Jack K. Hile, who is the regular substitute for RD 2 now, also will handle the new route. Each patron on the route will be notified so that from that time on they may change their number from either 1, 2 or 3 to a 4. There will be no delays in delivery as the other three routes will see that the new RD 4 gets all the mails it should before the route leaves daily.

Brown said this is also true of Mounted Carriers 19-21 and 22, who are transferring portions of their mail to an auxiliary route, which probably will be numbered MC 23. It will get into full service just as soon as the equipment cases arrive.

"All this has been brought about because of urban construction," he added. The present substitutes are handling the new auxiliary mounted route also.

Department spokesman said the auto is owned by James Taylor of 1735 Main St., Wellsville.

Charred Body Found

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The charred body of John D. Copping, 33, a patient at a nearby Veterans Administration hospital, was found Friday after firemen extinguished a grass fire in a vacant lot.

"I have carried out my act of immolation as a protest of Johnson's war in Vietnam — this, like my final act, is a war of frustration," read a note under a nearby rock.

Jail Escapee Still At Large

LISBON — Police here filed an escape from confinement charge Friday in Columbiana County Southwest Court against Robert Higgs, 23, of 120 W. Washington St.

The escapee is still at large, although he fled in a 1962 Chevrolet four-door sedan with distinctive markings. The car is brown, but the left front fender and door are painted white.

Higgs is charged in mayor's court with petty larceny — 15 used auto batteries taken Aug. 15 from the Mattix service station on N. Market St.

Police were preparing to fingerprint Higgs Thursday evening in their office on the second floor at Village Hall. He asked to use the restroom, opened the window and dropped 20 feet to a cinder drive. He evidently got to his car a couple of blocks away before police discovered he was gone.

They said Higgs came here about six weeks ago from the Martins Ferry area. He is on parole from a West Virginia burglary, they added.

The production of whisky was stopped on Sept. 8, 1917, to conserve grain during World War I.

Patrol, Liquor Fines Turned Over To State

Columbiana County courts turned over $28,897 as the state's 45 per cent share of Highway Patrol fines and $512 as the state's one-half share of liquor violation fines during fiscal 1967, Roger Cloud, state auditor, reports.

Ohio courts assessed and collected a record $4,775,455 in fines from patrol cases, an increase of $1,062,427, 28.6 per cent, over the previous fiscal year when fines totaled $3,713,028.

In Jefferson County, local courts returned $18,950 to the state from patrol arrests and $125 in liquor fines.
